Zanesville Museum of Art and Southeastern Ohio Symphony Orchestra Host Free Concerts at the Museum

ZANESVILLE, Ohio—The Zanesville Museum of Art is proud to announce a new series of classical and jazz concerts at the museum in association with the Southeastern Ohio Symphony Orchestra. Seven performances are slated to take place September 13, 2018 and through May 2019.

“The museum is delighted to work with the Symphony and maestra Dr. Laura Schuman,” states ZMA Executive Director Laine Snyder. “Museum guests love live musical performances in our modern gallery atrium, and the Symphony is a perfect fit for us. I am looking forward to the incredible range of concerts Dr. Schuman has planned for us and our visitors.”

The inaugural concert begins this evening, Thursday, September 13, at 6:45 pm, with the Muskingum Valley Brass. All performances are free and open to the public. Preceding the concert, at 6 pm, is the lecture by Symphony conductress Dr. Laura Schumann “What does that painting sound like? What Does that Music Look Like?”

Both organizations are interested in strengthening and reaching new audience for the visual and performing arts and both non profits seek ways to enhance the services provided supporters.
